

The Atheist Antichrist

FOKOSW

“If I said that I am the third Antichrist, born from the womb of Mater Lilith will you risk trying to find out if that is true?” - Richard Hax

THE ATHEIST ANTICHRIST

FOKOSW

Is science always correct? Does science replace religion? There are lots of atheists who attack Christianity from a scientific perspective but I will attack Christianity from a nihilistic perspective. Because you cannot objectively prove science. Like in a court case you must prove beyond reasonable doubt; but science is based off observation and not solid sensory universal information i.e. all five senses, proven and known by everyone and everything. This I think could only be present under a one-world government but then it would be dogmatic and based on principle rather than objectively-empirical based truth.

Can we prove evolution is a objectively-empirical based truth? Not necessarily because it's a theory. This doesn't mean that we should throw away evolutionary theory absolutely but it does mean that we should be skeptical of its validation. I am an atheist in the sense that I have a lack of a belief in a supernatural deity but I don't throw the baby out the window to just say that essentially God is fiction. Some would say this is a form of cowardice, since it showcases the rather cynical and doubtful perspectives of myself but I have explored religion and spirituality personally with no success. Not little success.

None. No verifiable evidence that is no delusion or illusion to make up a reason for my God's existence. If you are going to prove God's existence, throw some meat on the table. God is not something to play around with. Especially with the minds of the religious. It is potentially dangerous. Somewhat different from Richard Dawkins' perspective on how religion is dangerous, it is not always dangerous but sometimes mild and indoctrinating. Religion sometimes has the tendency to create docile, weak and squirmish collectivists, not individuals. Hive mind mentality.

I have even criticized the Satanist for his tendency to break free from reason and humanity in place for dogmatic ritual superstition. Which brings me to the observation that there essentially is nothing wrong with Christianity or Satanism but rather the Satanist and the Christian. Theistic Satanism is a fascinating theological doctrine and equally as much; Christianity. It's just the people who believe in it. I respect your decision to be a religious or spiritual man but do not ask everyone or expect anyone to believe in your lies. It does not work that way anyways.

Make sense. Explain away why abortion should be illegal in the United States because it's God's Country but do not expect that position to be based upon undeniable fact. Do not expect people to follow that act. It is common sense. Don't make up stories and expect people to believe in them. I could make my stance on why the Trump administration is profoundly incompetent but it doesn't make it true. It's fundamentally opinion. Why is it opinion? We all have different truths, some of which that do not make any sense whatsoever or are hyper-violent, depressive and sometimes clinically insane.

Take Christianity for example; the belief that a dead zombie came back from the grave and became the world's saviour. In the Bible there are examples of homosexuals being stoned to death and if you doubt me then please read Leviticus 18:22 and 20:13. Then you may understand why the dead zombie joke, though offensive, is nothing in comparison to the blatant homophobia of the Holy Bible. And this has nothing to do with social justice but humanities that Western Civilization is built upon; post-enlightenment ideas. Unlike Deuteronomy 21:18-21 (KJV) which boldly states that 'a man' with a 'rebellious son' should 'stone him with stones' literally not figuratively. This gets even more controversial when you factor in Osteen's "God didn't make a mistake when He made you, you need to see yourself as God sees you." Which contradicts the point of Deuteronomy 21:18-21.

God saw a mistake in you and decided to sentence you to death. Maybe God loved you to death? Jokingly so. Also Nietzsche's quote about how "Woman was God's second mistake" is equally as funny. Though Nietzsche didn't believe in the Christian God. Adam and Eve is a classical story on the ignorance of women from a biblical perspective, which is deeply misogynistic. Speaking of the Devil, back to the concept of SSUI (solid sensory universal information); a developing coined term. Is the Bible based on empirical fact like SSUI? No. It is based on faith like how Osteen stated "Faith activates God."

I can verify and back this statement but I will change around the sentence structure; "Faith activates the belief in a God." Activating means to brainwash yourself to the belief that God exists. It is a Mobius strip. I believe because I have in faith in God which means I believe in God. The Merriam-Webster definition of Faith is, “A strong belief or trust in someone or something: belief in the existence of God: strong religious feelings or beliefs.” You see how little sense this argument makes? Another scripture of the Apocrypha, of the Bible states “that a man should eat the flesh of his own son, and the flesh of his own daughter.” - Baruch 2:3. Those are the punishments of a loving God according to John 3:16?

I believe Epicurus is correct, “If God is unable to prevent evil, then he is not all-powerful. If God is not willing to prevent evil, then he is not all-good. If God is both willing and able to prevent evil, then why does evil exist?” It is a trilemma which states that either God does not exist or does not exist have all three of those properties. Which damages Christianity. At least Satanism is more honest in that, Satan is not omnipotent, omnibenevolent and omniscient. But Christianity and Christians state that God is a perfect being. Some had alluded to the mysteriousness of God, which some gnostics have went in quest to solve that difficulty but even a Gnostic will tell you that there are so many wild interpretations, scriptures, documents, etc. that you probably will never find the answer in your lifetime. Not to discourage anyone, you are free to find it. I, however will illustrate how pointless it is to go into the flames of delusion. As I stated before in [Numerous Edges...] that essentially there is no rules but the constructed rules of us apes; humans. Nihilism is the denial of all existence or rather eliminationism. Therefore, let's be honest, there are no risks associated with praying to God or even Satan. We are autonomous beings capable of making our own choices. However psychology and the human brain is present; making it difficult to become transcendental and beyond human reason.

So let it be known that my criticism is not of Satanism, Christianity or Occultism. But all spirituality and supernatural dogma and belief. It is the denial of all spirituality. As offensive as this will sound; Lilith doesn't exist as same as the Flying Spaghetti Monster does not exist. She might have been a real person however, similar to the story of Jesus. Besides, why am I to believe in the Ars Goetia or the Lesser Key of Solomon in contrast to the Holy Bible? If I create a demon would you worship him? Let's call him Ogeeshim; the Lesser God of Pluto who resides under a giant swollen vagina which bleeds periodically as it menstruates. And each time it bleeds, a woman commits suicide as a living sacrifice to Ogeeshim. One of the rituals to invoke Ogeeshim is to peel back your foreskin and rip off a piece of flesh to eat it. Once you invoke him; you may experience extreme sexual perversity and thoughts of raping infants to death. This is because Ogeeshim is sadistic as one of his character traits and often enjoys tormenting living organisms to satisfy his high libido. The origin of Ogeeshim was that he was born from the anus of a goat and he was sexually abused as a infant. He was forced to perform scatophiliac actions like rubbing fecal matter on his genitalia.

In honor and celebration of the abuse; all followers of Ogeeshim must perform a enema filled with urine on the first of October. It's called Ogeeshimilasheedem-shi-la-sheedem. Isn't that fucking retarded? How is it even somewhat coherent or rational in any stretch of the imagination? But some incredible jackass will read this and adopt an occultic sub-religion based on this demon I completely made up. Did I forget to mention that Ogeeshim is racist towards blacks and views through the hole of a phallus from Pluto to see blacks and sends a succubus to sexually molest them to death? Still believe it? Put that on Occultopedia and please contact E.A Koetting to do all of that. This is the most absurd and abstract visualization of a deity, I understand, but what makes the mythology of Ogeeshim less valid than Lucifer or Aamon?

Nothing. But you will continue to perform scatophiliac actions in honor and celebration of Bael. You will get arrested for sacrificing 12-year-old girls to the Devil in a blood sacrifice to Agares or Ogeeshim even. And Christians will not be saved by Yahweh when they go to prison for stoning homosexuals to death. A depressing fact, maybe to you but a reality to all of us. But is it still worth to eat the Cake of Light even without consequence; positive or negative? It depends on how you determine the amount of effort put into an unknown is aligned with your patience. Which is a nice way of saying if you are gullible enough. If I said that I am the third Antichrist, born from the womb of Mater Lilith will you risk trying to find out if that is true?

Highly unlikely. But you will 'try' for Buddhism, Taoism, New Age dogmatism, Christianity, Judaism and Illuminism. Some of you have came up with the silliest hypotheses about the existence of a supernatural deity and how to prove they exist. As I have stated, it is highly unlikely but likely that you will try it out. How strange. Sanity is in the numbers I guess. Your inclination to follow anything is based around the popularity of it. How sad. There are no particular benefits of being an atheist, since it is essentially the belief in no Gods. If I don't believe in God, especially spirituality then I cannot have a conversation with someone about the Zodiac sign or about that amazing prayer I did to Jesus Christ last Sunday.

However Dawkins pointed out that the Atheist can be just as or even more happy as the next person. The world is so much bigger than a God. God and the supernatural is a limited concept. Unless you are an anarchist, then you are following and obeying the edicts of this society even if it contradicts your own God or supernatural belief. You are a Christian? Look at the back of your Dollar Bill and see that all-seeing eye everyone is talking about. You are a Satanist? Then why the hell are you saying 'one nation under God'? Of course there could be exceptions to this statement, but ultimately aren't you doing a ritual to the Most High? Shem HaMephorash? You might think that as a atheist who believes in the Illuminati is completely full of shit and is actually a devil worshipper, however isn't it the New Secular Order (Novus Ordo Seclorum)? Not New World Order. I had made a statement on this about the Illuminated Nihilist but as always; Nihilists do not believe in gnosis. Subjective idealism takes the charge once more. Be skeptical of everything including perceived truth. Subjectivity lives in the idea of Man.

And Man is an ignorant ape who is limited in his mind or brain capacity to understand. Man cannot understand all. So we are not the one to order around living organisms. This is a little bit anarchistic to suggest these things, but is the men and women of limited intelligence, strength and beauty, the dictators and powers that be of the future? No, there are no Gods and no masters. Delusion and illusion is the price of the fool which leads to sorrow, his reward. You are incapable of making decisions beyond human understanding. This is not bad. Maybe it is better to be human, all too human. But a band of pseudo-intellectuals will stomp out the allies of truth, reason, will and humanity. This band is like a dying trend holding onto the past and believing superstition in contrast to reality.

This is terrifying. Does it take a man of total opposition to all corruptible religion and dogma to crush the delusions of mankind? Are these people ‘moral’ in their conquest? Is morality a reality? The most important question I must invoke is “Who made God?” Did God created Man or Man created God? If Man created God, then this is a perfect example of cowardice. You are afraid of the world, you are afraid of death so you create an afterlife and you assume your prayers are working. You assume your rituals are working. You are mistaken. How do you know it is not circumstantial? If I knew that Ogeeshim would give me the knowledge of rocket science, then I would probably decide to study less or not at all. I would perform a ritual to Oggeshim and he is supposed to grant my wish to know Quantum Mechanics. Let’s say I do know it, does it make it true evidently? Is the ritual working?

Yes and No.

Impossible things haven’t really been captured on camera that would suggest the supernatural is real and why would God or any other supernatural deity provide no evidence of his or her existence? Is God dying or God lying? Holding back information or becoming less competent? Jesus Christ is a non-existent deity, not because of his incompetence (which some Christians suggest that we hate God or think God is stupid) but because of the complete lack of evidence of his existence. The same goes for other deities that people worship or ask for help from. It is the equivalent of death. Dying is another form of looking at and thinking of Her. Gods and Goddesses. But the wicked think they're wicked and the righteous think they're righteous. There are no wicked and righteous. Which comes from the position of moral nihilism.

Who exactly are you? The naked man possessed by the Devil in the Bible or a apostle and elder? I would hope the answer would be nobody, but you'll try and say that you are a sinner who worships Satan or a believer who worships God. Not in any world you live in would suggest that these things are boring, limited concepts. They can only apply to certain people. Is there perhaps a in-between an Demon and an Angel? According to Christians; no, because we are all sinners and Psalms states that man who says there is no God is a fool who does no Good. The Satanist also says no because all those who reject God are pawns of Father Satan. Both go off the assumption that God exists. If you are a Satanist who doesn't believe that the Christian God exists then this doesn't exist apply to you. However, there are dogmatic Satanists who are indifferent towards the atheist because of their lack of subjection to the 'dark side'. It is childish I know, but what is the point of picking on someone who holds no flaws?

It is another form of subversion and dare I say indoctrination. This is another thought expressed in The Angel and The Devil, which stated the futility of the words; Evil and Good. There are no Devils and Angels, we are just playing a role as an actor in this movie being directed by our powers that be. Maybe you are inclined to sin? A degenerate? No, essentially those dark thoughts are less deterministic and more calculated. If the Devil Worshipper is a sinner then why is there the potential to do good? Notice that I stated 'potential' because even according to the Christian religion, you could repent.

Redemption is possible so are you truly a sinner? No. Same with a Christian who represents Good. You could easily slip down the slope of sin and lose your Holy status. But I bet you will never be the extreme on either side. You won't forever remain a sinner who does infinitely devilish acts and no good at all, because let's be honest, the world does not like assholes. Same with holiness and sainthood. This is another example of the 'white sheet' which showcases the purity paradox. The logical fallacy of perfection.

There are bound to be imperfections in anything. This absolutely denies intelligent design. Creationism has ate an bullet. Is it possible to remain a 'pure' sinner and a pure saint? Of course not, there are no 'perfect' sinners and perfect saints. A satanist loses the war of evil, who I stress would be a dogmatic one. Dogmatic Christians are one in the same. I understand that these are extreme examples but there are people like this who exist. Similar to the horseshoe analogy in politics of how the extreme-left and extreme-right exist. There are extreme Anarchists and Communists and there are extreme National Socialists and Fascists.

The extreme Satanist, like those of whom ritually sacrifice babies to the Devil are the most dogmatic. You are a slave of the Devil or a servant to God. Really? This is a false dilemma. On both sides of the fence, they say this but provide no evidence even of a God or Satan. I am a militant Atheist but I do respect human liberty and autonomy. You can believe whatever you want. But do expect criticism and judgment. There leaves the question of constructive criticism and to correct ignorance, there must be a sort of honorable Nietzsche inside of us. A ubermensch. Cliche, but life is too short to waste on God and religion. Life is too short in general. Why are rituals and prayers so important? Why do you have to be enlightened? Because of some pretentious, superstitious consequence; positive or negative? I sense a sort of cowardice. What if I smashed a statue of Lady Fatima to pieces?

It's a strong hypothetical, and I probably never would but what if nothing happened? As a asshole atheist, I would say nothing would happen if you said "Fuck you, Satan", "Fuck you, Illuminati". In fact, there would be more response from their sheep followers than the deities of those dogmas. However, there is no reason to act like that and frankly Satan is much better than Allah or Jesus Christ. If there was a Devil, I would rather follow him versus Christ. Nothing personal. As I have stated, I have no animosity towards Christianity or Satanists. Though I have my biases. They have no ground other than what people give them. But even I have to slow down because I cannot give you a better answer to this world. But it's better than presuming an invisible man in the sky exists. Occultism is less dogmatic but even more superstitious than Christianity. Chaos Magick would tell you that your thoughts determine consequence and action, cause and effect.

This is potentially dangerous. Back to the Dawkins statement, where religion is dangerous; the belief that you hold the keys to the future in the pawns of your hand by your thoughts is surreally absurd. So is the law of attraction. So if I constantly think about having anal sex with Jessica Simpson, will it happen? And if it doesn't happen, was Jessica Simpson constantly thinking about it not happening?

If the Law of Attraction applies to positivity, then if I genuinely give away all of my money, sell my house, car and give away everything I own, will I get to be the next Bill Gates? No, that is complete and utter bullshit and if you actually convince someone of that cult-like nonsense then I hope you die of AIDS. So, enough of the childish insults and let's be serious. Satanists, Buddhists, Jews, Muslims, Taoists, and Occultists die horrifically gruesome deaths. Some commit suicide. Atheists do too. In fact, I bet you the most bizarre degenerate foot fetishist is the Atheist. But we don't believe in Venus, so we don't do sex magick. 69's, tantra, ritual and divine do not enter our minds when we have sex. We just have it. Not to be childish again but there is no point in putting in the creepy elements into a natural action.

We are secular.

I am a spiritual anarchist and minimalist, who believes that there is no hierarchy in the supernatural and that there is no God. Think about it, why are most of Gods and Goddesses human? Or modeled after humans? Diana may have been hot, but there is no evidence of her being a Goddess. And I doubt sacrificing a goat to Mars saved the Roman Empire.

Many civilizations who believed absolutely in a God, were destroyed. The Freemasons were expelled from European countries, the Wiccans were slain in the Post-Constantine Rome, and the Templars were burnt to death at the stake. Did their God help them? Spirituality is a delusion. People have abandoned Zeus, and replaced him with Je-sus and eventually will even abandon him for Satan. Then Satan will be abandoned for another God. Because their God doesn't help them because God(s) don't exist. I know that I am a cynical and a doubtful atheist asshole but there is no empirical evidence of a God whatsoever. It is that Satan Goddamn clear, in fashion of The Catcher in the Rye's language. Or maybe it isn't. What if I am wrong?

OK, there are many possibilities. Under the Christian doctrine, automatically I am going to Hell. But Christianity has numerous denominations and there are no clear answers. So I am going to Hell because I worship of SUNday instead of SATURNday? Am I worshipping Horus, the SUN God when I go to church on Sunday? Am I really worshipping Zeus when I'm saying Jesus in the prayer? According to the Gnostics, I am supposed to do sacred rituals in place of prayers to Jesus.

Then the Catholics worship the Virgin Mary, are they worshipping Ishtar? And according to most protestants, the only way to Heaven is through Jesus and if you worship false idols then you will go to Hell. Isn't Mary a false idol? The Catholics idolize the Virgin Mary, isn't that a direct violation of the edicts of the Bible? Lots of things to think about. We're all going to Hell. If you believe that there is no rapture, which there isn't since it is only in the Scofield Reference Bible, then you recognize that we will all have to take the mark of the beast and no God will save you from that. So, when your children are starving to death and you are threatened with a FEMA concentration camp, will you comply? Will you take the 666? I don't think that any of this will happen and if it will, then why is it taking so long? It should be sooner rather than later, if our elite are so passionate.

Death Grips once wrote in the Bottomless Pit:

"Inhuman elitist, decline your surrender. Sign of the freak thriving on a bender." Why would they decline their surrender? Is the Illuminati weak? But I thought Satan existed? Besides me being a jackass atheist, I will explain why exactly we as a species are declining. Or try to. We refuse to acknowledge the problems we have individually and collectively, so we will never fix those problems because we don't acknowledge them in the first place. That is surrealist humor, to me anyway. Did Man create technology or did God create technology? I wouldn't imagine science is divinely inspired.

For the dogmatic Satanist, wouldn't Marquis de Sade be correct in his libertine sadism? Meaning, the actions of the dogmatic Satanist are purely based around 'it has to happen for ritual or deity's sake' in contrast to the libertine and godless, faithless, Sade? If you believe in pure evil or follow the Occult, shouldn't there be some liberty to the wicked deed? If not, isn't there a sort of totalitarianism enforced around the spirit cooking. Shouldn't the spirit cooking be out of free will? Isn't personal freedom most important? I am now speaking specifically about Satanic cults, which are less common but still active across the world.

This is a amazing time we live in and we spread it on fooling ourselves. That is surreal humor. I discussed the relation of the Nazis to the Occult, and there are some profound striking epiphany I came to. Spirituality is a ticking time bomb. The people who believe; curses, hexes, prayers, deities, and spirits exist are on the edge. You see this society has significantly disenfranchised its citizens and how they are left with little but black magic. How sad. Do you want to become an popstar, film director, basketball player, bankers, etc? Join the Illuminati for a mere $300! Now you can engage in these old curses and become docile to a counterfeit organization!

Even idiots know that you cannot join the 1% by just paying $300. But this is our country or countries rather. This is surreal humor. I do not understand how people give away their life to a false deity under the pretense that they will become successful. If you do not participate in these strange rituals, then what? What are the consequences? Better question would be, if so why are there consequences? This is why I brought up de Sade because it rejects essentialism and supports libertine individualism. There are no consequences except maybe no pleasure, (or pain, if your pleasure is pain) which may be a reasonable compromise for your 2,000 year old religion. I am a radical skeptic, but I will never force anyone to become one. If you desire or wish to be enslaved, to many's surprise, I say good for you. I am glad you have found happiness and pleasure in total submission and masochism to whatever cult you have subscribed to. I find it strange, but I can understand.

You just want to be fucked. It's cool dude, I understand. You are not necessarily desperate, or 'just want to fit in', you actually want to become a slave. But please do not force me to become that. Crowley is most likely rolling in his grave and would shoot himself with a 44. Magnum alive, if he saw what the occult has turned into. It is one big conglomerate of delusional, desperate, and degenerate psychopaths and sociopaths. Not all of them are this but there are a mighty number of complete jackasses out there. If the shoe fits, wear it.

Like for example, the Order of Nine Angles having a convicted pedophile as one of their highest ranking individuals. Don't get me wrong, I think the O9A is an amazing pseudo-organization. But, there are complete jackasses in the O9A. Total embarrassments in the occult. Quite frankly, losers. And the scary part is not that they exist, but that they represent the occult. The representation is a sign of a loss of control. Why aren't there many Michael Aquino's? Temple of Sets? If there is any confusion as to who Aquino is, then you are a poor occultist.

There should be a doctor, or a president or leader whom are occultists; openly not secretly. It is ironic to ask of this because occult implies esoteric rather than exoteric, however I believe the reputation of occultists in this country would be alot better if they displayed goodness in the public arena. But I am not Sun Tzu, right? I admit that I am not the most intelligent writer(s), however I don't think along the lines of naivete. So being locked inside of a abandoned insane asylum, doing rituals to Helios and Azazel will fix the problem?

No, not talking to the people directly! We must brainwash them through witchcraft spells to convince them! Are you fucking serious? Excuse my french, but this seems like the only way you people will understand. Don't even get me started on After School Satan, however there are exceptions. School; or an academic institution, is already a post-Alexander Inglin indoctrination camp. The education system is already a fraud. But we are pushing Satanism onto young, impressionable children who are already predestined to a 'Catcher in the Rye situation'? I rest my case. If this was a court case, and I was the prosecutor, the jury would've already had their verdict before the final statement.

It is obvious! Religion, spirituality, the Occult and superstition are dying. God is dead. We are quickly becoming more secular as the days go by. Our secularism is slowly beginning to reject spirituality. So what's the point? The membership of Freemasonry has shot down from 4,103,161 to 1,076,626 since post-WWII. Since Hitler and Mussolini shut down the Masonic lodges (and when they were put back), Freemasonry has been on the decline. Your 33rd degree Freemason knows this. So I have an suggestion, make Freemasonry accessible and open to the public. Alot of those people in the lodge are social climbers anyway so why not? Make Freemasonry Great Again. By the way, I copyrighted that idea already so don't take it (not really). Call it charity. The FOKOSW is not in competition with other organizations, in fact the FOKOSW is not even an organization but it's a pseudo-organization similar to the O9A. We are helping in a rude way yes, but helping irregardless.

We couldn't steal from V.K Jehannum, not only because at least personally I don't believe in that bullshit, but because the FOKOSW is original and postmodernist. Innovative and experimental. Unlike Freemasonry, we are more transparent and frankly have nothing to hide. We are not perfect or divinely inspired. But we can assure you that there are no sexually abused children being cannibalized by our ritualmasters like how alot of these Satanic cults have.

We are secular and open-minded, and most importantly do not coerce or solicit anyone to join the organization unlike those Shriners at the front of your Wal-Mart. But we are not angsty, rebellious children either. Unfortunately we are normal. I never shot heroin into my toenail nor have I engaged in Satanic orgies dedicated to the Moose God while Pink Floyd's The Wall was playing backwards.

And to be frank, what is the purpose of that? I have always been average, maybe a little genius in me but never anything to brag about. Honestly, I am a curious cat. That is why I know what I know. I am nosy and I am always searching and seeing. Learning and finding out new things. I am proud of that, to be modest and honest but never poor in knowledge. Even the most intelligent forget simple things or don't have 'common sense'. But I am not under the blessing of the fairytale Goddess Minerva, the owl of infinite wisdom. And for the record, fuck Minerva. We are the human species, we do not need fairytales to guide us. Now when I say that, I do not say that out of hate or ignorance. I am pretty certain that Minerva was a human being of decent stature, and with a little sex appeal, but never of a divine power.

I am biased yes, but I am open-minded to perhaps that idea. But neopagans and polytheists aren't. So fuck them. We will read The Douchebag Bible by T.J Kirk and tell our kids that Santa Claus isn't real. How am I rebelling against Minerva, Diana and Isis, when they do not exist?

I am not rebelling, just stating truths here and you don't have to agree with them. Again, I am not narcissistic or egomaniacal enough to say any of its one-hundred percent true. I'll shove an ankh up my ass faster than the Jews ran in Exodus. "How immature", you might say but at least I am not living in a delusion. I can't speak for the entire Atheist community however. I am not a sellout, or yet at least. I haven't sold my soul to the Devil, so I am not a willingly ignorant sheep-slave living under the mercy of Mistress Dread. Lou Reed once immaturely wrote 'Dragon', a song from the collaboration album with Metallica.

The fingertips run through her hair. What a bitch she is, I think. Mistress Dread is your government, your religion, and your dogma. Intellectual laziness and mental illness. Are you the beast you worship? The Atheist Antichrist?

First Edition: The Atheist Antichrist (2018)